Introduction

We would like to thank the External Evaluation Committee (EEC) for their thorough and professional evaluation of the Culinary Arts Management (4 Years, 240 ECTS, Bachelor) program. We appreciate the time and effort dedicated to this comprehensive review and the collegial approach taken during the evaluation. We are grateful for the committee's recognition of the strengths and positive aspects of our program. The EEC highlighted the dedication of our faculty, the practical orientation of the curriculum, and the strong industry connections that provide valuable opportunities for our students. Additionally, the committee acknowledged our commitment to fostering a research culture, the quality of our facilities, and the comprehensive support services available to our students.

The feedback has been invaluable in identifying areas for improvement, and we are committed to addressing these recommendations to further enhance the quality of the program. The insights provided by the committee will significantly contribute to the continuous improvement and success of the program.

More members of staff could engage with research activities, it is only two members that are currently working on. Incentives should be provided such as paid time to be allocated or incentives upon publications	We appreciate the committee's emphasis on the importance of a research culture and the synergies between teaching and research within our Culinary Arts Management program. In response to this, in academic year 2023-2024, Intercollege introduced a new policy to enhance our research and publications profile, while also continuing to build on the solid foundation of existing practices that have long supported scholarly activity among our faculty. 	Intercollege Research and Publication Policy: We have introduced a new policy designed to incentivize research and publication among our faculty. With this policy, faculty members receive monetary rewards for eligible publications, which also contribute to their evaluation for promotion. This initiative is part of a broader strategy to deepen the research engagement of our academic staff and to visibly align with our commitment to academic excellence - Attachment 1.
	Existing Research & Professional Development Support: Alongside the new policy, we have a well-established system that supports faculty research, including:

1. Research Time

Allocation: Faculty members can apply for research time release, ensuring they have dedicated periods to pursue scholarly work, which allows for a balance between their teaching duties and research ambitions.

2. Performance

Evaluations: Research activity has always been a key metric in our faculty promotion and ranking process, emphasizing the value we place on contributing new knowledge and pedagogical approaches.

We believe that the combination of these new and existing measures establishes a strong and supportive environment for our faculty to engage in research and publication work. We will of course continue to explore additional incentives and support mechanisms, such as expanding research grants, fostering industry collaborations, and increasing opportunities for international research exposure.

Our goal is to not only maintain but also to continuously improve the support for our faculty's research endeavours, ensuring sustained academic excellence and innovation.

Resit exams could be scheduled outside the Internship period
