ANSWERS TO THE COMMENTS
INCLUDED IN THE EXTERNAL EVALUATION REPORT
OF PhD IN HISTORY-POLITICAL SCIENCE

Our answers are largely based on the final remarks of the External Evaluation Committee (EEC) which can be found in page 27 of the External Evaluation Report (EER) of July 6th, 2017. In this context, we have fully accepted the three main issues that were raised by the EEC, and more specifically:

1. We have modified the title and scope of the PhD Programme from “PhD in History-Political Science” to “PhD in Modern and Contemporary History” as explicitly suggested in the EER.
2. We have proclaimed a position of Assistant Professor in Diplomatic History and we have formed the necessary Committee for the election of one of the candidates in the above mentioned position, a development that will strengthening the academic staff involved in the PhD Programme.
3. We have adopted more detailed provisions regarding the admission requirements, as well as information about the required procedures prior to the assignment of a supervisor.

Comment 1

“The EEC expresses grave concern about the number of available academics in order to achieve the aimed programme.” (p. 7)

Answer

We accept and acknowledge the importance and the validity of the comment. For this reason, on 13 July 2017 we proclaimed a position of Assistant Professor in Diplomatic History. The deadline for the submission of applications was 30 July 2017. We received applications from four candidates. On 7 September 2017 the establishment of necessary Committee for the election of the new Assistant Professor was decided (see Annex 1). The members of the said Committee are the following:

Internal members 1. George Georgis, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos 2. Antonis Manidakis, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos 3. George Martzelos, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos	External members 1. Ioannis Hassiotis, Emeritus Professor, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki 2. Angelos Syrigos, Associate Professor, Panteion University
Substitute internal members 1. Konstantinos Athanassopoulos, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos 2. Diomidis Markoulis, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos 3. Spyridon Vliamos, Professor, Neapolis University Pafos	Substitute external 1. George Kazamias, Associate Professor, University of Cyprus 2. Iakovos Michailidis, Associate Professor, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

The Committee is already in the process of making the election of the new Assistant Professor. The election is expected to take place by the end of October 2017.

Comment 2

“The absence of a Masters Degree in Political Science does not support the principle of a PhD in the field.” (p. 6)

Answer

We have accepted the comment of the EEC. In this context, we have modified the title and scope of the PhD Programme from “PhD in History-Political Science” to “PhD in Modern and Contemporary History” which is supported by two MA Programmes: a) MA in History, and b) MA (Distance Learning) in Modern and Contemporary Greek and European History.

Comment 3

“The internationalization of the Neapolis University Pafos in the field of History and needs to be improved, especially for a PhD programme.” (p. 6)

Answer

It has been already accomplished through existing agreements with foreign Universities, namely a) the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens (Greece), b) the University of Pittsburgh (USA), and c) the Russian State University for the Humanities (Russia) (see Annex 2). All three have strong departments/faculties of History, as well as of other humanities related to History. In addition, we are in the process of establishing new agreements of academic cooperation with Novosibirsk State University of Economics and Management (Russia) which also has humanities departments (such as International Relations) related to History (see the formal correspondence in Annex 3).

Comment 4

“A programme of PhD in Modern and Contemporary History (not History in General) could be adequately supported by the institution, including the projected DL MA, provided there were additional permanent members of staff to undertake the supervision of PhD students. For a PhD in History, the proposal is generally adequate in terms of procedures, but not in terms of human resources.” (p. 8)

Answer

We have complied with the remarks of the EEC. See the answers to Comments 1 and 2 above.

Comment 5

“Furthermore, it would be advisable to adopt more detailed provisions regarding the admission requirements, such as a minimum grade for the MA of the potential PhD candidate, in order to secure the quality of candidates, as well as information about the required procedures prior to the final assignment of a supervisor (preparation of a thesis project.” (p. 8)

Answer

It has been accomplished through the inclusion of specific amendments in the PhD Programme Regulations (see Annex 4, points 2.2, 2.4, 2.6 and 2.7 of the amended Programme's Regulations).

Comment 6

“1.1.1. A document of clearly and formally defined admission criteria should be elaborated and provided. This is especially the case concerning the period preceding the final allocation of a supervisor to a PhD student (preparation of a project etc). ” (p. 12)

Answer

It has been accomplished through the inclusion of specific amendments in the PhD Programme Regulations (see Annex 4, points 2.2, 2.4, 2.6 and 2.7 of the amended Programme's Regulations).

Comment 7

“1.1.3.2. The EEC notes the absence of explicit PhD Programmes in Political Science (seminars, required publications etc).” (p. 12)

Answer

As it has already been mentioned in our answer to Comment 2, we have accepted the view of the EEC concerning the change of the Programme's title from “PhD in History-Political Science” to “PhD in Modern and Contemporary History”. Thus, Comment 7 concerning Political Science is no longer relevant to the Programme.

Comment 8

“1.2.1. and 1.2.5. The EEC notices for the field of Political Science the absence of methodology programmes specific for such a research.” (p. 13)

Answer

As it has already been mentioned in our answer to Comment 2, we have accepted the view of the EEC concerning the change of the Programme's title from "PhD in History-Political Science" to "PhD in Modern and Contemporary History". Thus, Comment 8 concerning Political Science is no longer relevant to the Programme. However, we have included specific provisions in the amended PhD Programme Regulations concerning the obligation of the PhD candidates to attend seminars of methodology, research and writing of academic papers, as well as the obligation of the PhD candidates to publish an/or participate in academic meetings, such as seminars, conferences, congresses etc. (see Annex 4, points 3.3, 3.5, 3.10, 6.2 and 6.3 of the amended Programme's Regulations, and Annex 5 "Methodology Seminars for PhD Candidates in History"). Moreover, in order to further strengthen the quality of mechanisms and procedures for the constant monitoring of the progress of the PhD students, we have included additional provisions in the amended PhD Programme Regulations (see Annex 4, points 3.3, 3.5, 3.10, 6.2 and 6.3 of the amended Programme's Regulations, point 5.2).

Comment 9

"1.3.1. The EEC has grave concern about the number of available academics in order to achieve the aimed programme." (p. 15)

Answer

It has been accomplished. See the answer to Comment 1 above.

Comment 10

"1.3.2.1. and 1.3.2.2. The historian Professor Georgis is an established scholar. None of the other two members of staff, experts in International Relations, have a PhD in the core of Political Science." (p. 13)

Answer

As it has already been mentioned, following the suggestion of the EEC, we have accepted the view of the EEC concerning the change of the Programme's title from “PhD in History-Political Science” to “PhD in Modern and Contemporary History”. In order to further strengthen the History nucleus of the PhD Programme, we have proclaimed a position of Assistant Professor in Diplomatic History and a Committee for the election of the said Assistant Professor has already been formed and is in the process of making the election (for more details, see the answer to Comment 1).

Comment 11

“While in History a programme of training seminars is not usually required, in Political Science such programme is considered as highly recommended.” (p. 16)

Answer

It has been accomplished. See our answer to Comment 8.

Comment 12

“See comment of 2.1.” (p. 17)

Answer

It refers to Comment 11 which has already been accepted. See above.

Comment 13

“The Quality Assurance for a PhD in History is satisfactory. However, for a PhD in Political Science the absence of a structured programme of seminars is a major problem.” (p. 18)

Answer

It has been accomplished. See our answer to Comment 8.

Comment 14

“2.4.8. Transfer of ECTS is mentioned but the provisions are not defined and presented.” (p. 19)

Answer

We have complied with the policy of DIPAE concerning the non-transfer of ECTS. To this end, in the amended PhD Programme Regulations we have deleted any reference to the transfer of ECTS. The full text of the amended Regulations can be found in Annex 4.

Comment 15

“2.5.1. There are not enough international agreements of the NUP to ensure the required collaborations with other institutions.” (p. 20)

Answer

It has been accomplished. See our answer to Comment 3 above.

Comment 16

“2.5.4. The academic profile in the field of History in terms of procedures is satisfactory. However, in the field of Political Science the absence of a programme of study leads the EEC to provide a mark of 1 for this criterion.” (p. 20)

Answer

It has been accomplished. See our answer to Comment 2 above.

Comment 17

“The EEC has not been provided enough data to evaluate the adequacy of financial resources. Yet, the increase of financial sources via Institutional Partnerships, EU Research Grants, EEA Financing Mechanism, UNDP etc should be examined as an option of multiplying fund-raising activities and access to additional resources.” (p. 23)

Answer

In order to facilitate research activities, as well as synergies with other institutions and secure additional funding, the Research Centre for Modern and Contemporary History was established on 2 May 2017 (see Annex 6). In the first few months after its establishment, the Research Centre for Modern and Contemporary History has secured the implementation of two externally funded research programmes: the first is about the history of newspapers in Pafos and it is funded by the Petrides Foundation; the second is about important personalities of the 19th and the 20th century originating from Pafos and it is funded by the Municipality of Pafos (see Annex 7).

Comment 18

“6.2. The EEC refers to its comments above (2.1 and 2.2).” (p. 26)

Answer

It refers to Comment 11 which has already been accepted. See above.

Comment 19

“See comments in 1.3.” (p. 26)

Answer

It refers to Comments 9 and 10 which have already been accepted. See above.

Vice Rector
Neapolis University Pafos
Professor Diomedes Markoulis

Dear Professor Markoulis,

We would like to express our gratitude for your kind letter and good intentions for mutually beneficial cooperation. The recently signed agreement between Republic of Cyprus and Russian Federation about mutual recognition of university degrees has definitely opened prosperous way for a wide range of educational initiatives, some of which could emerge thanks to our cooperation.

Novosibirsk State University of Economics and Management (NSUEM) was established in 1967. Since then more than 70 000 our graduates contribute to Russian and world economies as profound specialists in economics, management, ICT and law. In commemoration of NSUEM 50th anniversary we will host official celebration ceremony and International Scientific Forum on Education and Entrepreneurship in Siberia on October 12 and 13. These two days of the forum will be devoted to the discussions on the linkage between education and entrepreneurship. Detailed information and the application form for the Forum are available at <http://forum50.nsuem.ru/en>. We hope that you and your colleagues join the forthcoming events. During such visit we may organize a series of meetings with our professors and administration for discussing and drawing up a roadmap of NUP and NSUEM mutual activities.

We fully second your initial thoughts on the potential forms of cooperation, namely:

- a. Joint degrees at the undergraduate and graduate level. Management, accounting, financial audit, public administration and tourism are the key fields for cooperation from our point of view. Please refer to the full list of undergraduate and graduate programs currently taught in NSUEM and let us know if you would like to expand the list. Please also be informed that courses in NSUEM are taught in Russian, but our lecturers work on the English versions of them. Currently Regional Economy is fully available in English, and disciplines such as Theory of Economics, Accounting and Statistics are taught partially in English according to CLIL methodology;

- b. Student exchange per semester or academic year. We suppose that together we may apply for Erasmus+ Key Action 1 (Credit Mobility) funding for the students from NUP and NSUEM;
- c. Language Summer Schools for students interested in English, Greek and Russian;
- d. Joint research and publication activities in mutually selected fields of study with the possible third-party funding from EU, Russian and international funds.

For further inquiries please contact Mr. Denis Shvedov, Head of Office for International Cooperation: phone +7 (383) 243 94-16, mobile +7 (913) 725-75-90, e-mail d.v.shvedov@nsuem.ru.

The minimum grade of the applicant's Postgraduate degree should be 70% of the maximum grade (i.e. 7/10 or the equivalent in other grading systems).

2.3. The applicants to the program need to fill in a special form which is available at the webpage of Neapolis University, and to submit all the necessary documentation (Degree, Master's etc.), accompanied by a written research proposal concerning the proposed subject. The research proposal should not exceed 3,000 (three thousand) words, should include the title of the thesis, as well as the main bibliographical references which are related with the research goal of the proposed thesis.

2.4. The research proposal is drafted by the applicant in consultation with one of the members of the teaching staff of Neapolis University. The research proposal shall:

- Pinpoint any problems or difficulties that the applicant foresees that he/she might face while conducting his PhD.

2.5. The applicants may include in their proposal references to their academic works or academic activities that prove their ability to conduct scientific research.

2.6. The research proposal is examined by the Coordination Committee, which is comprised by the Program's Coordinator and two other members of the teaching staff of Neapolis University. For the evaluation of the applications, the Coordination Committee takes into account the following:

- The quality of the research proposal (50%)
- The grade of the applicant's Postgraduate degree (40%).
- The rest of the items included in the applicants file, such as the grade of the undergraduate degree, any other degrees, academic publications, presentations at conferences, relevant professional experience, awards etc.

2.7. The Coordination Committee makes a preliminary assessment of the application, the research proposal and the rest accompanying documents which are included in the applicant's file, approves the subject of the PhD thesis, appoints the three members of the Advisory Committee, and announces that the applicant is a PhD candidate. The Coordination Committee may decide to justifiably reject the application, or may decide to ask him/her to submit a new version of his/her research proposal which will follow specific guidelines and meet specific standards so that the Coordination Committee examines again the application.

2.8. The main Supervisor of the PhD thesis may change only in special cases, which are ad hoc examined by the Coordination Committee.

Η έρευνα θα διεξαχθεί με ευθύνη και καθοδήγηση του καθηγητή Γεώργιου Γεωργίου.

Το Πρόγραμμα έχει σκοπό τη συγκέντρωση υλικού για τη ζωή και τη δράση επιφανών ανθρώπων των γραμμάτων, των τεχνών, της εκκλησίας, της τοπικής αυτοδιοίκησης και της πολιτικής που γεννήθηκαν ή έδρασαν στην Πάφο (Κτήμα και Κάτω Πάφος).

Δεν θα περιληφθούν άτομα που γεννήθηκαν στην πόλη της Πάφου αλλά μετοίκησαν νωρίς σε άλλη πόλη της Κύπρου στην οποία διακρίθηκαν. Θα περιληφθούν όμως προσωπικότητες που γεννήθηκαν στο Κτήμα και την Κάτω Πάφο και έπρεψαν στο εξωτερικό, προβάλλοντας το όνομα της Πάφου.

Θα περιληφθούν επίσης επιφανείς Τουρκοκύπριοι που γεννήθηκαν και έζησαν στην πόλη της Πάφου.

Η πρώτη φάση της έρευνας θα διαρκέσει περίπου έξι μήνες και περιλαμβάνει τη συγκέντρωση και κατάταξη του υλικού. Στη συνέχεια θα γίνει η αξιοποίηση του υλικού στη συγγραφή.

Για τη συγγραφή και ετοιμασία των μονογραφιών, το Πανεπιστήμιο Πάφου θα συνεργαστεί με το Κέντρο Ιστορικών Μελετών και Ερευνών Πάφου (ΚΙΜΕΠ).

Επισυνάπτονται:

1. Αναλυτικός προϋπολογισμός του Προγράμματος
2. Προκαταρκτικός κατάλογος των προσωπικοτήτων για τις οποίες θα αναζητηθούν στοιχεία. Ο κατάλογος μπορεί να συμπληρωθεί με περαιτέρω ονόματα ανάλογα με τις πληροφορίες που θα συγκεντρωθούν.
